Reading Week

"The more that you read, the more things you will know. The more that you learn, the more places you'll go."
— Dr. Seuss, I Can Read With My Eyes Shut!

The written word is incredibly powerful. Words can empower, encourage, and inspire people. Reading is thus a powerful tool. Reading began six thousand years ago. Initially only a few could read, and they were held in awe by the public. By 2020, 86.81% of world's population was literate, meaning that they could read and write.

Reading is our window to the world and it gives us access to information on an extensive range of topics and allows us to explore different subjects and gain a deeper understanding of the world around us. Through reading, we can delve into new cultures, ideas, and perspectives, broadening our knowledge and challenging our existing beliefs. Most importantly reading fuels our imagination and creativity. When we read, we visualize characters, settings, and events in our minds.

Since 2017, 19th June is celebrated as India's national reading day. The day marks PN Panicker's death anniversary. A revolutionary in the world of education, Panicker is famously known as 'The Father of the Library Movement in India'. Panicker travelled through the villages of Kerala and popularized the slogan, 'Read and Grow'. Because of his pioneering work, in April 1991 Kerala became the first totally literate state in India.

To commemorate this day, the students of L'ecole Chempaka Serene Valley observed Reading Week Celebration from June 14-19 this year.

We conducted various competitions like testing the calligraphy and reading skills of the students. We also had a fantastic Character Dress-Up competition where children came dressed as their favourite character from a book and recreated them on stage for the benefit of the audience. We also had a literary quiz to understand how well-read our students are. We held a book exhibition on our campus on June 15, 16 & 17th where children had the opportunity to buy specially selected titles for the different age groups.

The importance of reading from a students' perspective that highlight the transformative power of books and literature in their lives.
